HOST YOUR WEDDING AT A SIGNIFICANT HISTORIC SITE

The Don Valley Pressed Brick Works Company operated for over 100 years and at its peak, produced 43 million bricks annually. Many of the buildings, homes and landmarks of the City of Toronto are clad in bricks produced at the Brick Works. Shortly after the Don Valley Pressed Brick Works Company closed in 1984, our national not-for-profit, Evergreen, saw the potential of the site and the heritage buildings that remained. In 2010, Evergreen Brick Works opened and continues to be a leading example of how past and present can work together in green design.

Evergreen Brick Works is a social enterprise and an award-winning showcase for green design. By choosing to host your occasion with us, you'll be making a difference. All proceeds from your event will directly support Evergreen's not-for-profit work across the country.

About Evergreen

30 years ago a small, passionate group of people got together and started planting trees. The aim back then was simple: make Toronto a greener city.

But an amazing thing happened when those trees took root, people came to see them and take joy in their presence. Over time patterns began to form, strengthening the communities who came to enjoy the places where we worked. We learned pretty quickly that transforming places is great for people and nature alike.

Three decades on and we've grown from a few volunteers to a nationwide organization, and our impact has grown with it. We've evolved from wanting to make just one city a little greener to working with communities across the country to make public places better and ensure that every city - from coast to coast to coast - is bursting with life.
